

FIJI SUSTAINABLE ENERGY CONSORTIUM

LABASA
SAVE THE DATE
1st November 2019

ATTENDANCE IS BY INVITE ONLY

While Fiji's national carbon dioxide equivalent emissions make up a statistically-insignificant 0.006% of global emissions, the Fijian Government and other non-government stakeholders in the country have already taken bold steps to achieve deep decarbonisation in all sectors of the Fijian economy.

This collective national initiative takes form through long-term emissions reductions strategies, known together as the Fiji Low Emission Development Strategy (LEDS). With the commitments by governments to the Paris Agreements and their associated national energy targets, the need for the private sector to partake of these business opportunities cannot be underempha-sized. There is a need for a united voice and united positions and to be heard.

Similarly, there is a need to protect the industry and to introduce some quality assurance to the products in the market and service providers alike. To work towards leading up to the Fiji Sustainable Energy Consortium Inaugural Annual General Meeting, the Government of Fiji's Department of Energy, the Pacific Islands Development Forum (PIDF) and the Pacific Center of Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency have the pleasure to cordially invite you to National consultations to be held in North.
